Đakovo, Croatia

Đakovo

- first mention in 1239
- known as bishop's centre
- also known for its horse stables

-a settlement here existed from Roman times named Certissa, and the beauty of this region has delighted the Roman emperor Marcus Aurelius Probus, who had vineyards planted here in 277 AD

Cathedral

The Đakovo Cathedral of St. Peter, build in the neo-romanesque style was the seat of Đakovo-srijem diocese

Stable

- in Ivandvor near Đakovo, the parent herd of mares is located together with offspring that are bred here until the third year, when male foals are relocated to the training center in stable Đakovo

A large number of Lipizzan horses from our Paddock are proudly entitled European champion, which is why Queen Elizabeth II. decided to personally visit the paddock and Ivandvor in 1972

Đakovački vezovi

- Đakovački vezovi is the traditional, cultural and tourist event in Đakovo. Among many diverse programmes the most popular is the Folklore of Slavonia and Baranja region along with participation of folk groups from other parts of Croatia and from abroad

Obrtnička škola Antuna Horvata

- the oldest profane high school institution in Đakovo
- it started working on January 23rd 1887 when it was named The Apprentice School

- the school is persistent in their tendency to preserve the tradition of Đakovo and Slavonia through transferring customs and values onto their students

- our school is rewarded for taking care of environment and it has been proclaimed ECO school

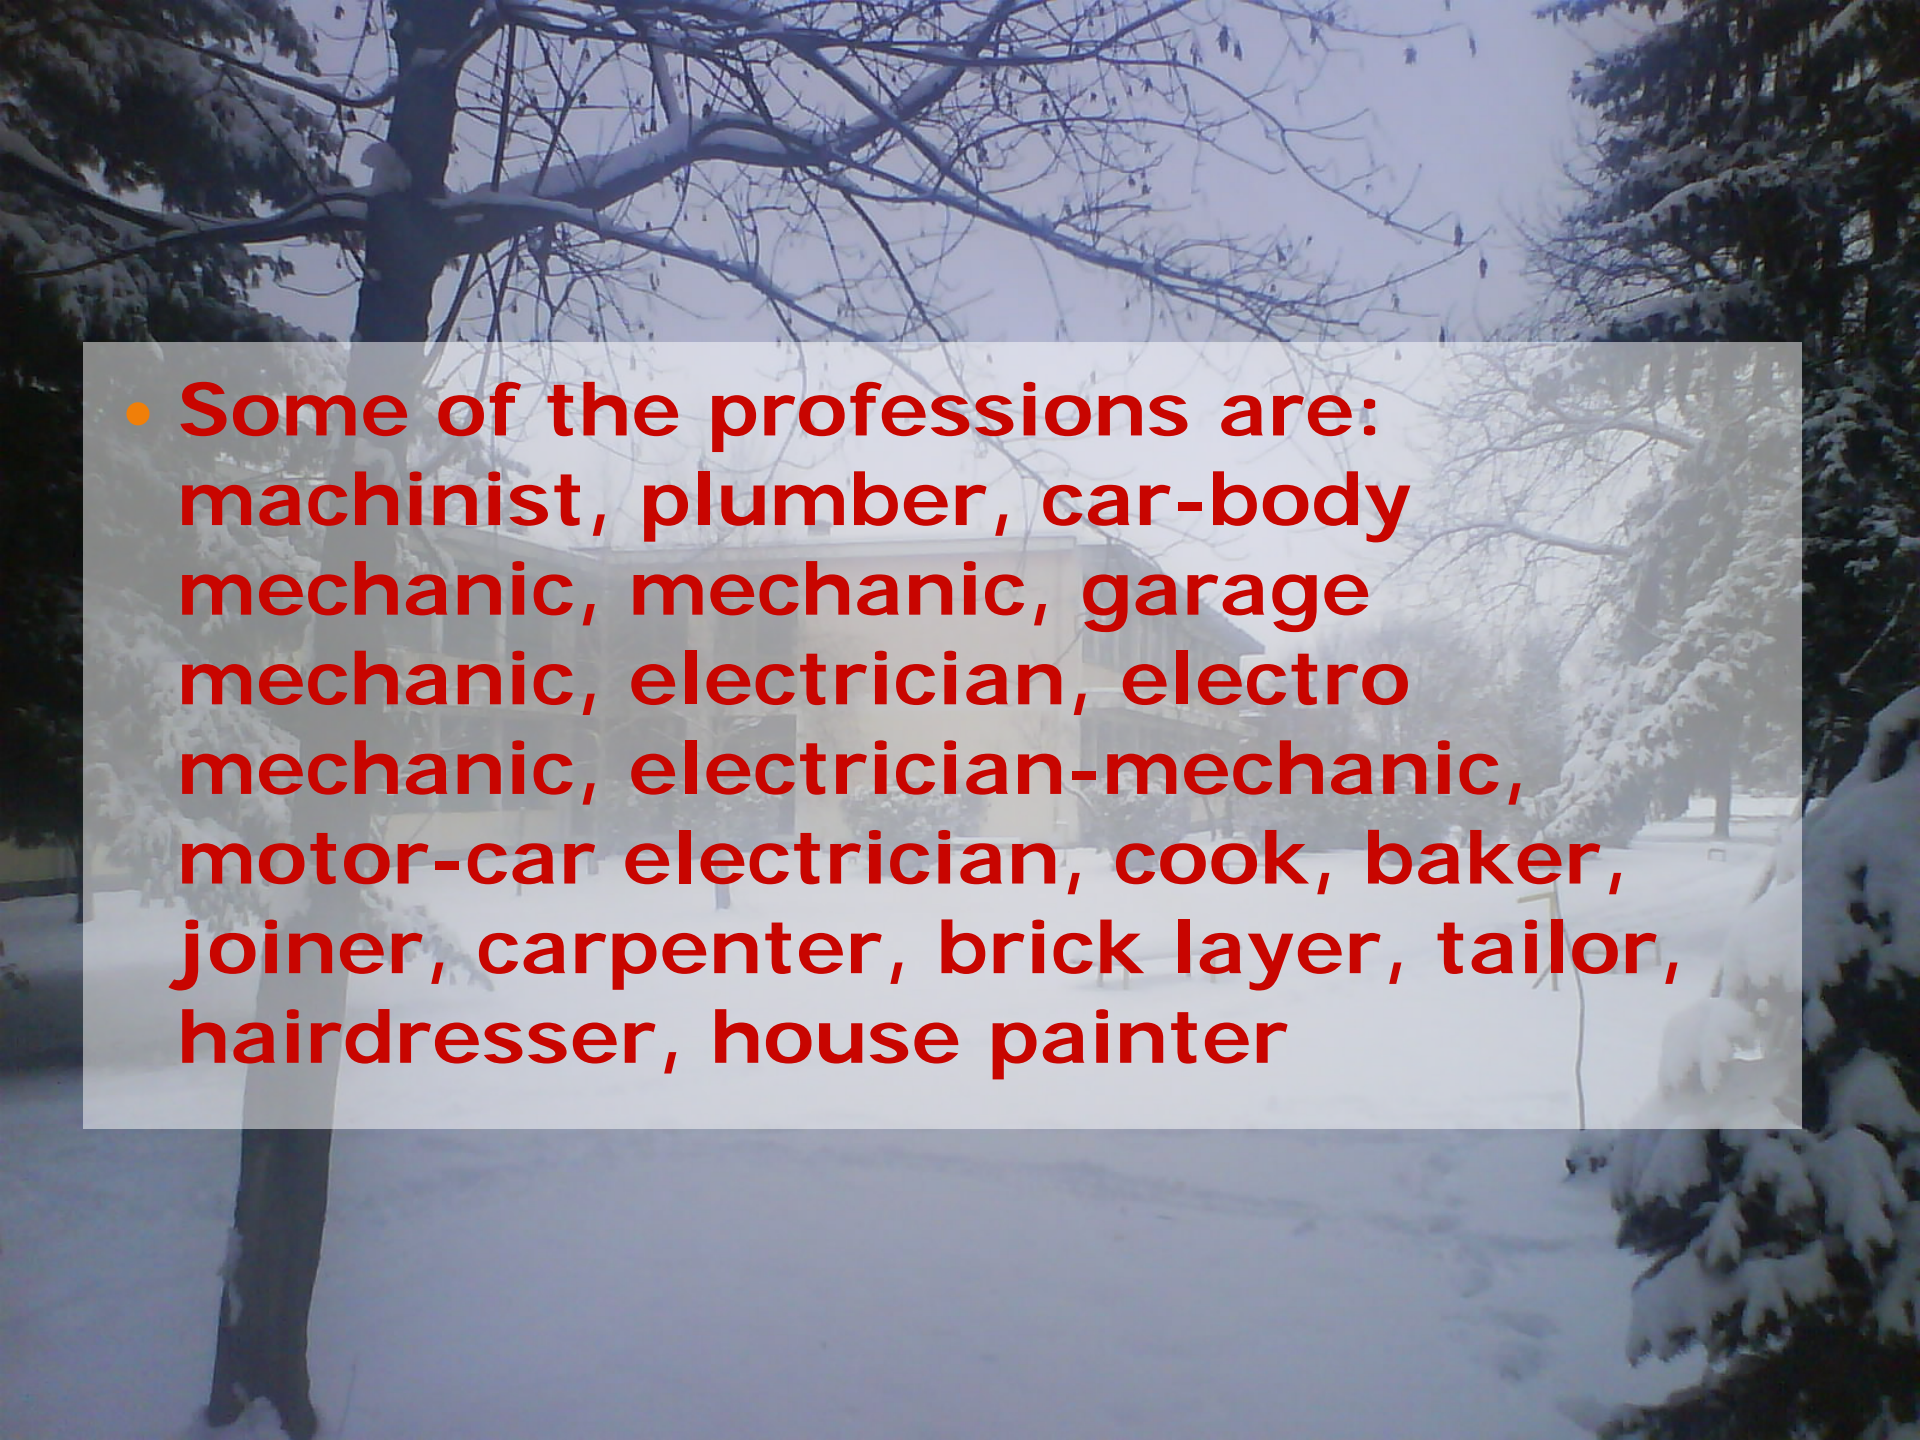

-we've won the prize for the best Trade School in Croatia in 2010

- Our school has 900 students and 30 departments with different professions
